Born in Glasgow, she spent most of her childhood in Sheffield before graduating with a First in Ancient History from the University of St Andrews – categorically the best university in the world.

She then spent a few years as a Christian missionary in Albania before returning to Glasgow with fluent Albanian, a smattering of Balkan recipes, and the rudiments of crochet.

Her first novel, Leda, was short-listed for the Scripture Union New Fiction Prize in 2007. She has since written novelised biographies of St Augustine and St Patrick (Christian Focus Publications), and the non-fiction Why Everything You Know about Robin Hood Is Wrong. She also annotated the 21st century edition of Hugh MacDonal’s classic Rambles Round Glasgow.

K C Murdarasi is available for speaking engagements, interviews and appearances.

REVIEWS

“K. C. Murdarasi ... writes beautifully and deeply theologically for young people.”

Rev Mo Gibbs, Baptist Union of Scotland

“Augustine: The Truth Seeker ... is a wonderfully interesting version of Augustine’s life story. Ms. Murdarasi has done a wonderful job of bringing Augustine to life for middle grade kids.”

Danika Cooley, Thinking Kids Press

“I read Leda in the course of a flight from London to Dublin and found it to be quite a page-turner. The nicely-spaced incidents all move the story along in the right direction and I warmly commend it.”

Dr John Blanchard, bestselling author
